Clarification on the Home-Front Command Order Regarding Dangerous Goods in Ports

Please find herewith clarification regarding the Order on the treatment and storage of dangerous goods in ports, and consequently, the duty of ports to receive authorization for every entry of a ship carrying dangerous goods (loading, transit, unloading), from the Administration of Shipping & Ports and the dangerous goods center of Home-Front Command.

- Ships carrying dangerous goods in transit- in general, there is no restriction to enter the port.
- Ships carrying dangerous goods as export from Israel- there is no restriction to enter the port. The transportation shall be monitored by the dangerous goods consignor.
- Ships carrying dangerous goods as import to Israel:
 - a) Dangerous goods transported by direct delivery- there are no instructions by Home-Front Command. The relevant instructions are issued by the Ministry of Environment through the port toxin permit.
 - b) Dangerous goods not transported by direct delivery, shall be considered on a case by case basis, taking into account the risk range, the ports' storage capability in protected areas, the unloading time from the ships and the length of stay in port until the goods are delivered.
